Paul Foglino

She twists a finger in her hair
She lights a cigarette
She says "someday I'm going to leave
And someday you'll forget
It might be tomorrow, it might never be
Don't regret, don't regret

Some folks want love like a razor
Where every kiss comes out a threat
Love is a dollar to everybody who
Is always slipping in and out of debt
Even if a love is just two people passing through
Don't regret, don't regret

I've heard that only time will tell
And that if it's real it shows
But what if time can keep a secret
What if true love never knows

Please don't promise to be true
With words that you'll forget
You don't need to believe in me
When all you know is that I haven't hurt you yet
Don't know about tomorrow so just let tomorrow be
Don't regret, don't regret
