Everything has been taken away
The lines are blurred, but now I see
We're left without a trace
Of the essence of an existence

Destined to fail, our trials will prevail

Relinquish the past, trials and tribulations
So play your hand
Regardless of how much you wish for change

We must overcome, while we still can
We must have the will to carry on Something to hold on to
Our plight will bring us to new depths

We walk alone, I disguise that I...
Despite my failures, it may end my life
This is my burden and I carry this alone
This is my burden and I carry this alone
I will carry this alone

Things will never be the same
It's the way of the world
Regardless of how much you wish for change

We feel our hardships, but won't lose hope
We feel our hardships, but won't lose hope
We feel our hardships, but won't lose hope
We feel our hardships, but won't lose hope

I still believe we can succeed
I still believe we can succeed

We feel our hardships, but won't lose hope
We feel our hardships, but won't lose hope

We walk alone, I disguise that I...
Despite my failures, it may end my life
This is my burden and I carry this alone
This is my burden and I carry this alone

I will carry this alone

And I still believe that we can succeed

We feel our hardships, but won't lose hope

We feel our hardships, but won't lose hope

No, we won't lose hope
