Allow me to tell this story in words you'll understand
So you begin to grasp
The gravity of your actions

The advantage that you've taken
Of the foolish souls is unbearable
And when you are held responsible for what you've done
You will... suffer

You've sealed your own fate
How can you look at yourself and feel anything but disdain?

The sands won't wash away your treachery
The scars will never fade from this
The sands won't wash away your treachery
The scars will never fade from this
Treachery of faith

Fate sealed, you continue blindly
Along this corrupt path of ill intention
Willing to tread on those who have tried
So hard to forsake you as you gain false trust

Not anymore, this time there's no forsaking
Judgement impending
Your fate is sealed and

No one, will grieve when you are gone
No one, will grieve when you are gone

The sands won't wash away your treachery
The scars will never fade from this
The sands won't wash away your treachery
The scars will never fade from this
Treachery of faith

And when it seems like you could be forgiven
You throw it back in everyone's face
And when it looks like you are relenting

You can't help but consume another
And now I've seen it all before
(I've seen it all before)
I won't fall for it again
(I won't fall for it again)
Your time has come and you will suffer
By my hands

You will suffer, by my hands
You will suffer, by my hands

Surrender now
To all that you have done
Cause no one will grieve
When you are gone

No one will grieve
When you are gone
