I dial your number but you never pick up and I know your standing there you see my name and walk away like I'm an uninvited bother some telemarketing someone selling garbage you don't need it didn't used to be this way I guess I got lost in space floating aimlessly around while you fell down down down to earth without ever looking back you never felt the need to check on me and see if I was still attached so give me away if you don't need me anymore maybe ebay so you can purchase something more send me away to the highest bidder the one who wants me the most just let me go

when you told me you love me it used to feel like home now all I hear is hesitation in a condescending tone it says "I don't need you anymore" and "you're invading on my space" "I'm sick of you I'm sick of us and I'm sick of your face" no you don't want to be a part of me as far as I can see the grass was green but you watered every other week without a single try to bring it back to life you'd rather let it die so I hope you're happy and you're full of what you think is pride congratulations the only thing you proved is that I can do better than you

I'll do better on my own

I don't need your love there's plenty more where you came from
