She braids her hair
Puts on her dirty makeup
And I don't worry
Cause I know I'll still find her under there

Sometimes I think
Of a life alone a life lived without her
And it makes me realize
Without her I can see everything that I'd be

If she never said PLease TRy
Then I could never make it on my own
And If she would have said Goodbye
Then I could never call this place my home

She throws away
All of the pain by my feet
And She hides away
All of the madness that I keep

Sometimes I think
Of a life alone a life lived without her
And it makes me realize it makes me realize
