I never gave you a reason to believe that I was bad
I never gave you sorrow for the things I never had
I never made up stories to acquit me of a crime
And I never took your woman, just to make somebody cry

But you, you took mine
Yeah you, you took mine
I never had the money just growing from you tree
I never had an aeroplane, I never felt that free
I never didn't love you, just because I wasn't there
And I never took your lover, without asking if you care

Yeah, plastic love
Rules my world
