Make it a good one this time
Scramble, clamber to unearth your claim Don't make it a loss this time - you're going to butt in You're going to find your competitive side Walking into a disposition that you never thought would fit
You won't pray yourself into Oblivion
You won't be scared sacred becoming a minion
You can't help but crave Desire eventually will have you wanting the right thing
You may seem a bit na've, but you need to discover where the line is

So that you know where to cross it and walk beyond that silver streak
You won't pray yourself into Oblivion
You won't be scared sacred becoming a minion
Your house of cards can't always be sheltered from every Bump or breeze - keep it out of Devastations sight...god forbid...I'd want to play with it
You won't pray yourself into Oblivion
You won't be scared sacred becoming a minion
