

Amos W. Drummond

"Beautiful Woman"

Visit "Beautiful Woman" on MotoLyrics.com

She entered the room like an autumn's breeze. She rustled by me, she did not even cut her eyes.
As i was thinking that this love would never be, that's when she hugged me, by surprise.

Beautiful woman, lovely woman... beautiful woman....
lovely woman...
Our conversation it spilled deep into the night, and we held hands and we walked the shore.

That's when i saw the morning sun light up her eyes,
and my heart melted and it wanted more,

Beautiful woman, lovely woman... beautiful woman....
lovely woman...

It was one year when we meet again it was in the spring and her skin was soft and warm, she had love in her eyes. That's when she turned and looked at me. That's when i asked her to be my wife.

Beautiful woman, lovely woman... beautiful woman....
lovely woman...

She entered the room like an autumn's breeze.

Visit Amos W. Drummond page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.