There's a silence here between us I've never heard before and I can't find the love in her eyes anymore there's some changes goin' on I'm beginning to understand when I'm holding her I swear I feel the presence of another man

There's stranger in my house somebody here that I can't see A stranger in my house somebody here tryin' to take her away from me.

She sits staring out the window a million miles away and when I ask if she's alright she never has too much to say is it somebody we both know or somebody she just met is she lovin' him in her mind while she's lyin' here in my bed

There's a stranger in my house ...

Suspicious lead to questions and questions to alibis is it just my imagination or has her love turned into lies?

There's a stranger in my house ...

There's a stranger in my house ...
