"Let's Call It Rape"

As we meet the process of a women's rights concept, We often hide behind the ignorance we've accept. But doesn't it feel right, to share each other's bite And to live among each others without fight? The truth, the lies, the agony we fight, Are the result of a man-made crime In which religious beliefs deny the right for women to be recognized. But are we missing the point?
Yeah, are we missing the point now That we've been taached to accept how the injustice just takes no bow.
We take no lessons from our priest Because the message they intend to preach intoxicate our tired foolish minds. They subjugate (well let's call it rape) and we can't take it!
