

Merlons of Nehemiah

"Pon This Shallow Blood" with my eyes of sorrow witnessing the reality of this world upon which we thrive upon this shallow blood to hide yourself would only mean regrets to live for yourself would only mean more pain tear down this creation of a society to which we are programmed to live believe in trust in i have faith in my destiny a shallow breath seems like forever a divine whisper to save your soul there must be a place where we are free torn away from the thoughts of happiness kept locked so far away
