a trail in a forest that has no end, a place i can take you if you wish many things could you see; many things could you hear many questions could be answered, without a question asked colors youâ€™ve never seen and answers to questions never asked

let your pupils get used to the darkness, feel the bark guide you through pass the trails of mortality, see the faces of the willows weep enter the trails of immortality, become one in the endless wood

let your pupils get used to the darkness,

trails of immortality, trails of immortality
