we are the children
of a hungry world
we become hunters
when we're boys and girls we wait for the future sharpening our tools because we see that our leaders have been raised by wolves.

and i wonder what you see in the mirror of my eyes there is trouble inside us well beneath our disguise and the world will tell you you must kill to survive but the killer inside us doesn't really care why.
