[Never will find out, never understand. All my questions will go unanswered.]
Funny how lies can be so easily covered by deceit.
The first time in years that I have cried
I never knew it could ever be this hard.
I wish I'd never gotten out of bed.
I wish that those two words had not been said.
Never will find out never understand. All my questions will go unanswered.
You never wanted me, you never cared for me, and now I'm left with another broken...
Summer days spent listening to the mixed tape you made for me.
Now songs remind me of the past, a time when everything seemed so simple.
I wish that things were simple again.
I wish that we could go back to when we were still friends.
Never will find out, never understand. All my questions will go unanswered.
You never wanted me, you never cared for me, and now I'm left with another broken...
I can see us in every mirror. When you were still in my arms.
The reflection deceives and will slowly see that I'm gazing into a broken mirror.
Never will find out never understand. All my questions will go unanswered.
You never wanted me, you never cared for me, and now I'm left with another broken...
