Sit outside of your front door
try to see the world outside Can't see more than what we were, we are, this town will always be

In the road tonight like every night
and everyone was right
Do you believe in me?
In what we were, In what we used to be?
I know it hurts right now, but soon you'll be ok.
I know it hurts right now, but soon you'll be ok.

So why the hell?
Am I so lame?
This town's so gay, thought I should've changed.

So why the hell?
Am I so lame?
It's all over, thought I should've changed.

Seen the road, change your mind
The world was on your side Spiningless not meaningless to me in a preliminar again change your road, right eyes to see the world outside see there's nothing more than fantasy
there's nothing left

Sit outside in your front door trying to see the world outside
Do you believe in me?
In what we were, In what we used to be?
I know it hurts right now, but soon you'll be ok.
I know it hurts right now, but soon you'll be ok.

So why the hell?
My life's so lame
My town's so gay, thought I should've changed

So why the hell?
My life's so lame

It's all over, knew I should've changed

Told you I should've changed
