hey little girl, you're standing at my door i'm standin' here, oh can't you just see that i don't want to har your stupid shit no more if i wanted you here, that it just would be lookin' at the sun, when you sung and you told me so a smile in your eyes, i thought that it was for me seeing i don't like your back against the floor your angel disguise with more guys only chorus:

what's done is done i've said my piece you're not the one it's easy to see why don't you go back where you came from you never were cool and always were dumb i do know when you're ready to go, when to let go oh can't you just see you've brought it down to not friend but foe my angers loud so go if you will please lookin' at the times when you lied and you told me so cried and you did not know, it was not for me seein' all the things that you, could not ever know it seems like such a joke, that in you i believed
