

764-Hero "Satellites"

Visit "Satellites" on MotoLyrics.com

One day you'll be in trouble
Heading north along the coast
And you can't take any more scenery
Only satellites light your way

And you never did anything different
You just sat there in your armored chair
And you never did anything different
You just sat there all alone

A new day, no second guesses
As you circle around the town
And who knows, who knows the difference
As the satellite lights your way

And you never did anything different
You just sat there in your armored chair

And you never did anything different
You just sat there all alone

I want you and all the trouble with you
'Cause everything's over my head
You're paralyzed by fear
A stumble is a marathon
And everything's over my head

I want you and all the trouble with you
'Cause everything's over my head

One day you'll know the answer
But it's not on the train tonight
And who knows, who knows the difference
Just the satellites light your way

Visit 764-Hero page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.