in gray skies I'm here standing your written prose I see reflecting stay awhile & I will talk about my weathering.

i will reminisce about the hopes I have experienced how i wish I'd known what I'd been up against,
were my beliefs so high they justified my martyring?

friends failed yesterday, no hero's ever found, the greatest battle i ever fought was on the inside of myself.

is beauty still worthwhile.

tripping up on broken shoes,
i wandered through monotony held so close to what I thought, could keep me floating. ask if I believed.

i trusted in myself those years,
muse of art inside my ears,
you can't cave in to your fears
this is worth more than your tears.
