i don't want to sound profound, just like to give a little glimpse of agony erosion and despair
so tired.

I've been waning, I've been waiting for something to come around and see me struggling here after all these years.

anywhere. I wish I was anywhere observation, calculation, I've read everything you've done

just to try and make your world seem clear.
no change
playing games and calling names, the scripts always seem to end the same doesn't seem like anything is changing here.

ch

so sick and tired of burning out pulling my hair and thinking about what life's supposed to be no more
all these stupid words we say and all these stupid games we play
just for once I'd love to leave this place and cut free.

I wish I was anywhere but here.
