ever since you went away
I cannot say
I've been the same
because you took away my everything and I've got no one to blame Now in my dreams it seems that all my hope and strength is washed away and I'll never be the same

When years have gone by and your thinking about this scene again back inside your mind think of all the good times we've spent cause right before your eyes I'm singing through my pain knowing that our lives will never be the same were falling into the life of another plan and I'm praying that our paths will cross again

But it looks as though that we have reached the end and its not likely to start over again
