Well everytime you smile

it takes me quite a while to recover.

And everytime you cry

I find I'm searching for the rock I can crawl under.

This could be any little town

There must be mountains callin' somewhere

I can take you there

I'd hold you till we vanish into thin air

It's crazy how I love you

This could be any little town

(this could be any little town)

Same when she sees me

(this could be any little town)

Say so she frees me,

(this could be any little town)

sacred and easy.

So I went running up the street

I must've forgotten I had feet searching for something

Just feelin' out my crazy eyes feeling the full effect of lies left you with nothin'

Oh someone said to me today

Son your run your life away dancin and dreamin'

But I could hear beneath the haze of this hopeless life that stays his heart was screamin'

It's crazy how I've run through you

Yes it's crazy how i've run through you

(this could be any little town)

Same when she sees me,

(this could be any little town)

Say so she frees me,

(this could be any little town)

sacred and easy.

So it might take a lot of time

I might be lasting in a long line and then to love you

Should I kick and twist and scream or could just lay back and dream and think of summer

Oh there'd be no one else around just you and I and the sound of us breathing together

Stuck in this crummy little town we'd be happy just to lie down there forever

It's crazy how I love you

This is crazy how I love you

How I love you

Yes it's true
