

800 Octane "Brand New Faces"

Visit "Brand New Faces" on MotoLyrics.com

A million days have passed since I was in high school.
A million days but all my memories remain. I look back at all those days and wonder if I could ever go back would it still be the same? Too late for that. I can't go back. And try if I may, my face shows my age. Those days in college always seemed to fly by. Me and my friends doing everything but what we should. A lot has changed in those few years. I hope my future stills looks as good. 1991, under a setting southern sun.
That shines down on me. In a memory. The other day I drove to Vancouver. I went to go see one of my friends.
He said do you ever talk to Paul or Heather? Said I haven't in a while but I would like to again. And I'd love to back and visit all these places, but it would be brand new faces.

Visit 800 Octane page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.