There goes the boy from Santa Fe

Who lost his mamma in the second grade

Played Romeo in his high school play

He's never been in an airplane

There goes the boy who goes to town

To people watch and just hang out

He likes to sing in the car out loud

With the windows rolled down

And I'd give anything to hold him again

Cause it still breaks my heart each time when

He walks by my window, oh no

There goes the boy who made me smile

Danced with me down a grocery aisle

I taught him how to dress in style

His kisses always drove me wild

There goes the boy

And I'd give anything to hold him again

Cause it still breaks my heart each time when

He walks by my window, oh no

There goes the boy walking by my side

He's holding her hand just like he used to hold mine

There goes the boy

There goes the boy

There goes the boy
