"What if everything you had
Was like a castle made of sand?
Would you open up your hand
Or hold on tight?
And what if everything was wrong
And no one knew your favorite song?
There's no one left to sing along with you tonight

Everthing is all right
I will see you tonight
Everything you want is in your hands
And I can't help you decide
The battles you fight inside
And what hurts you
You don't understand

And it feels like there's nothing right
And its all the same to you anyway

(chorus)

The better place you wished for
Is just outside your front door
And still it never seemed so far away
The summer gave no reward
The coldest day was june 4
You wait to feel the sunlight on your face

And it feels like there's nothing right
And its all the same to you anyway

(chorus)

You never know what to say
So you run and you hide away
I see your shadow falling in a summer sun
So you never know what to say
Doesn't matter anyway
You'll heal inside you'll feel its time

And if everything you had is like a castle made of sand

Would you open up your heart and hold on tight
And if everything was wrong i would sing your favorite song
And you would have to sing along with me tonight
Sing along with me tonight
Sing along with me tonight

(What if everything was wrong
and no one knew your favorite song?)"
