Every moment is a memory
On and on into eternity
But as far as any eye can see
There's a great divide.

Maybe we can find a way
To fall into each others arms
And finally we can say nothing
Tired of making the same mistakes
With the same old bullshit lines
So maybe we should say Nothing

Every moment is our destiny
We can be just who we wanna be
But as far as every eye can see
There's a great divide

Maybe we can find a way
To fall into each other's arms
And finally we can say Nothing
Tired of making the same mistakes
With the same old bullshit lines
So maybe we should say nothing

[All we have is the simples of the moment passing on and on]
[All we are is everything that we'll become and might have been]

Tired of making the same mistakes
With the same old bullshit lines
So maybe we should say nothing

Maybe we can find a way
To fall into each others arms
And finally we can say nothing
