why do some choose to tear down what others work so hard to build why do some take innocent lives like they got the right to kill?

how can they face themselves in the mirror where is the guilt? where is the shame?
how can it be so fucking easy to cause sorrow and pain!

there has to be a valid reason
why they choose to be a never ending burden to our society is it something? from their childhood or is it something in their genetic code did they watch one too many violent t.v. shows.

if i was a politician
i could justify these questions but i'm not so i'll look for answers i'll probably never know

a never ending burden to our society
it doesn't make any sense to me and i don't think it's right if someone i don't even know is fucking up my life!

why do we pass glasses always turn passing blows what brings this need for violence?
what is it? i'd like to know! what leads to disposition where does it come from?
is it something in the water or is it just
something in our blood!
something in our blood!
