I hope you see me when you're crying, on the floor with no remorse
You'll never sleep the same again, you'll see my face and remember when The truth came out and the shard went in I took your life and you let me live

One more kiss, one more night, one more long goodbye
Your pretty face, your painted nails, the darkest night,
death prevails
And when you see my face, remember everything

Your eyes they tell me your secrets, and now my eyes they're filled with regrets I know you're not one to forgive, if that's the case then move on and forget Forget my name, forget this place forget my love, and forget my face

One more kiss, one more night, one more long
Your pretty face, your painted nails, the darkest night,
death prevails
And when you see my face, remember everything

This is the last time that I'll see you and I'll miss you more than words Could ever say, could you say Hurry save me, hurry save me
