

A Bloody Canvas

"View Through My Bedroom Window"

Visit "View Through My Bedroom Window" on MotoLyrics.com

Water drips down my windowpane the sky outside stands grey
And overcast
Though this time last year we stood beneath clearer skies
With clearer minds
What happened to us? what went wrong?
I remember days when we thought the sun would shine
Forever, guide us through the shadows
Oh, how innocent! how naive we were!
Too young to know that thunderstorms aren't terrible,
for
Every drop of rain that falls into the field must yield
To a flower with an intent to grow...

I close my eyes as the sky falls around me
My warm, wet escape from reality into a world of Regret... my insides are drenched, my heart has hollowed,

Standing empty underneath the streetlight, my hands
cease
To shake, my head hangs low with shame...
... will this ever be the same?
Can you hear me as I cry?
Tonight I'll lay this ultimatum at your feet
Through pouring rain my fist will meet a friend named
Concrete, I'm sorry for everything...
What happened to us? what went wrong?
Do you remember days when the sun would shine forever?
Well... it's still shining...
Open your eyes

Visit A Bloody Canvas page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.