

A Burial At The Sea "Like A Blessing"

The sun is now clear
And I know whos waiting for me when I point my sails home
After these lifeless years
When sink or swim was the only option
Haunted by sharks in the dark
You might think I'm buried
Buried beneath the depths
Swallowed by the ocean tides
Rest on the edge of the world
I hope you've stood your ground
And wait for me cross the horizon
With winds of hope in my sails
Like a blessing
No hope, no glory
Just a seaward home
No hope, no glory
