nights like these are better spent when i'm alone with you we're here to set this straight voices shake as we lead on to say all the things that was left behind and i can't get you out of my mind you play the songs that's on the radio we're driving blindly cause we got nowhere to go i could tell you that i'll never ever let you go but can we make this long enough to last maybe i'll be honest if you let me things will surely turn around and i couldn't lie cause this is what we've waited for we know that keeping secrets isn't healthy and the truth is what i've found but you wouldn't try to make believe that i'll be yours rumours spread,

when your friends turn their backs and they called me out on you they said that you could do better

"the boys we know, they act like they're winners" what a load of lies like they know any better but i've got more to prove than what they've got cus they don't know the places that we go i'll lead you on if you could hang on to the rope and i could tell you that i'll never ever let you go but can we make this long enough to last?
