You've been away from me too long
And you've grown without me too strong
So I might ask am I useful now ?
After all that time has past as I missed that smile

Cause I can tell by the sound of your voice
You got rid of that spell that let you no choice
And in the end that is quite a good thing
If you're still loving me it's on your own free will Cause I know you but still you're shy

And I ask myself sometimes why my words get no reply

But you are the one, for whom I'd burn all the words
That come to my mind and for you, I would only save love
But there are a thousand ways to love
There are a thousand ways to love

You are the heart beating inside my heart
You are the heart beating inside
You are the heart beating inside my heart
You are the heart beating inside

You've been away from me too long
And you've grown without me too strong
So I might ask am I rightful now ?
To be the one that watches over your sleep at night

For all the time that I've been away
I've bet you are mine now i have lot to repay
And in the end that is quite good indeed nothing can be taken for granted

Cause when you gave me your sweets skin to stroke the most beautiful day of my life didn't erase the days my heart was broken

But you are the one, for whom I'd burn all the words
That come to my mind and for you, I would only save love
But there are a thousand ways to love
There are a thousand ways to love

You are the heart beating inside my heart
You are the heart beating inside
You are the heart beating inside my heart
You are the heart beating inside
