Have you ever rode a dirt road with the windows rolled down Smelling that honeysuckle vine Riding for no reason and you're lookin' not seeing A house but every few miles Have you ever been rockin' on the porch with your daddy
Watchin the world turn slow
That's where country grows

It's in the hearts of those who know what life's all about It's laying your head on your pillow and fallin' to sleep
proud
You bow your head to Jesus cause He's where it all comes from
And you know He'll forgive you for the wrong you've done Ooh, it's in the earth and the church and the words that we speak slow
That's where country grows

Have you ever seen a young boy open up the door
For an old lady walkin' in slow
Or a shoe polish heart on a second hand car Saying "Shelly loves Billy" on the window Have you ever heard a mama cry saying goodbye
But she knows her soldiers gotta go, oh
That's where country grows

It's in the hearts of those who know what life's all about
It's laying your head on your pillow and fallin' to sleep
proud
You bow your head to Jesus cause He's where it all comes from
And you know He'll forgive you for the wrong you've
done
Ooh, it's in the earth and the church and the words that
we speak slow
That's where country grows

You bow your head to Jesus cause He's where it all comes from

In the end He'll forgive us for the wrong we've done Ooh, it's in the earth and the church and the words that
we speak slow
That's where country grows
That's where country grows

Have you ever heard a song that changed your life Coming through the radio
That's where country grows
