It must be written that the moon
Elbowed the stars and said
Let's do our best to make it hard for them

Your house turned into paper cranes
We watched the wind blow them away
Some sorry comfort I was then

The weight of a mountain
The skin off your knees
Come climbing up to me

We can work this out, I believe
Although it seems impossible

They turned our skeletons to wood
And scattered matches underfoot
We must walk carefully these days

The circles darken 'round our eyes
And yet our bodies, when combined
They gleam like diamonds in a cave

The weight of a mountain
The skin off your knees
From climbing back to me

We can work this out, I believe
Although it seems impossible now
Keep the world without only the two of us count

Two voices loud, it is possible now
They try to tear us down
We'll find our way again

Heloise gave her whole heart to Pete
Now eternally sleeps by his side
Oh, go ahead, fate, oh, give us your best
What is worth living for is worth a fight into the night

We can work this out, I believe
Although it seems impossible now
Yeah, without a doubt, we'll work it out

They can hurt us now on my knees
It makes me want to scream and shout
Yeah, we'll work this out, just the two of us
Keep the world without, keep the world
