Young girl, I saw you walk right up my street
Your eyes are naked, those promises that you can't keep
Then you go swinging to the rhythm of some unknown beat
I love the way your body talks cause it says so much

Ooh so much
So so so so much
Ooh so much
So so so so

Wish I could take you home and lay you in my bed
Wish I could teach you all the things your mother never did
And every morning I could give you sweet champagne
I love the way your body talks cause it says so much

Ooh so much
So so so so much
Ooh so much
So so so so

You're just sweet sixteen
But I still love you (love you, love you)
You're just sweet sixteen (ahh)

Don't say your mother's tried
Make love to me before I die (die, die, die)
Don't say your mother's tried
Make love to me before I die (die, die, die)

When you walk in your eyes (walk into your)
There's no need to decide
And no more guilty fantasize
Just let your body talk to me

You gotta say so much (so much, so much, so much)
Ooh, so much (so much, so much, so much)
So so so so much (so much, so much, so much)
Ooh, so much (so much, so much, so much)

So so so so much (so much, so much, so much)

Ooh, so much (so much, so much, so much)

So so so so much (so much, so much, so much)

Ooh, so much (so much, so much, so much)

So so so so much (so much, so much, so much)

Ooh, so much (so much, so much, so much)

So so so so much (so much, so much, so much)
