Finally packed your suitcase today
Packed all the letters and the flowers away
And marched out to the sea
With a suitcase of memories

On my hands and on my knees
I prayed the best for you and the best for me
And with one final glance; saw the ocean take your hands

And I said "Anchors away! Let the waters take you
Between the line of ocean and sky
To a new sunrise you've never seen before"
As I watched you disappear, I wished the best for you

Everything we used to be
Is scattered in a violent sea
But beautiful are all things in time

Made for eternity; not for a love so temporary
Temporary love was never meant for any of us

So I say, "Anchors away! Let the waters take you
Between the line of ocean and sky
To a new sunrise you've never seen before"
As I watched you disappear, I wished the best for you

So I say, "Anchors away! Let the waters take you
Between the line of ocean and sky
To a new sunrise you've never seen before"
As I watched you disappear, I wished the best for you

Oh, Oh, Oh
Oh, Oh, Oh
Oh, Oh, Oh

Temporary love was never meant for any of us
I am breathless and you're gone
Temporary love
