Hey,

The memories we've made they never really fade.
And though we think we change, some parts just stay the same. We try so hard to just put everything away, forgetting who we are and how we got this way.

And I'll admit right now that I took you for granted and I regret it. For what it's worth, I hope I've learned from my mistakes. For what it's worth I hope, I hope I...

Everyday I still think of you and all of the things you taught me. Remember that I believe in you and everything you were meant for. You've got so much heart inside you—
don't let them take that away, don't ever forget where you came from.

Fast, like the rhythms of the songs we used to play, the seasons passed and dragged us in our separate ways.
Though we live differently, we both still think the same:
we make the most of life and all it brings our way.

And I'll admit right now that I took you for granted and I regret it. For what it's worth, I hope I've learned from my mistakes. For what it's worth I hope, I hope I...

When the words "growing up" feel like "growing apart," the ones that we love will have changes of heart, and the lessons we've learned we just wish we'd forget, don't give up, don't regret, your life's not over yet.

'Cause we've learned to believe in ourselves once again. And we've learned that we don't have to pretend. And I wish you the best because I'm still your friend. 'Cause I've learned to let go and I know that I can.

Everyday I still think of you and all of the things you taught me. Remember that I believe in you and everything you were meant for.

You've got so much heart inside you, yea you've got so much heart inside you.
You've got so much heart inside you.
Don't let them take that away, don't ever forget
where you came from
