Bury me under crooked sidewalk
That's where we allegedly met
I knew that this would end
When the lines were shown across your bed
I know that I'm not a smooth talker,
I know my eyes are the wrong color
To see you open up your willing eyes and say,
"Did you mean it? 'Cause I didn't hear it."

What did you say as I walked out the door?
Did you want me back?
Did you want me?
What did you say as I walked out the door?
Did you want me back?

Bury me six feet under your bedroom
That's about as far as you could get
I knew that this would end
When you packed me up and left me for dead

You knew that I was a push over,
So you pushed me right over the edge.
I must say you never looked so good in black.
But, did you mean it?

What did you say as I walked out the door?
Did you want me back?
Did you want me?
What did you say as I walked out the door?
Did you want me back?

If you're having second thoughts,
Then you better speak up.
You didn't want me, you didn't need me
What did you say as I walked out the door?
Did you want me back?

I'm amazed that we made it this far,
We've been through this before
And my hope is lost.
I'm amazed that we made it this far,

We've been through this before
And my hope is lost.
My hope is lost.

What did you say as I walked out the door?
Did you want me back?
Did you want me?
What did you say as I walked out the door?
Did you want me back?
If you're having second thoughts,
Then you better speak up.
You didn't want me, you didn't need me
What did you say as I walked out the door?
Did you want me? Do you want me back?
