Lately I've been pulled down so hard
I can barely afford to miss out on you
I would be rich by now if I'd saved my breath
Careful it doesn't pay to be so
Incredible no I won't look back
And if I had the guts right now to take it
But I don't think I will make it

I want to kiss you so hard that your lips bleed
I want to hold you so tight that your ribs break
In the end we'll both know who we are
A body full of memories and battle scars

Blame me every chance that you get
I'm hopeful that this won't ruin us yet
You'll gladly risk your neck to tell me how
This will never work out

I want to kiss you so hard that your lips bleed
I want to hold you so tight that your ribs break
In the end we'll both know who we are
A body full of memories and battle scars

How will I leave when my veins are broken
I can barely see when I'm stuck in my moment
Coming undone to the back bone of our memory
Fall asleep to the promise of our melody
You'll risk your neck to tell me how
This will never work out

I want to kiss you so hard that your lips bleed
I want to hold you so tight that your ribs break
In the end we'll both know who we are
A body full of memories and battle scars

Memories and battle scars
(Yeah)

In the end we'll both know who we are
A body full of memories and battle scars
