Last night with you
Was like waking up with my wrists open
Last night with you
Was like waking up again

And the tap water was anything
Anything but frigid
And you owe me more then I can count on these two hands
And the tap water was anything
Anything but frost bitten
And you now owe me your very life

So I'll scream to the station master
"Let these hearts pump a little faster"
Cause we could all use something more
We could all use something more
And I'll scream to the station master
"Break these arms just a little faster"
Cause all I ever wanted
Was to tell you that I worry

And this could be your chance
To break me down
It could be the chance of a life time
Well just break me down tonight
Just break me down tonight

This could be your
Your once in a life time
Come on and break me down
Well just break me down

This could be your
Your once in a life time
Come on and break me down
Well just break me down

This could be your once in a life time
Come on and break me down
This could be the once in a life time
Come on and break me down tonight

Well just break me down tonight

This could be your once in a life time
Come on and break me down
This could be your
Your once in a life time
Come on and break me down
Well just break me down

This could be your
Your once in a life time
Come on and break me down
Well just break me down
