This is the crises I knew had to come
Destroying the balance
I'd kept
Doubting and settling and turning around
Wondering what will come next
Is this the role that you wanted to live
I was foolish to ask for so much
Without the protection and infancy's guard
It all falls apart at the first touch
Watching the reel as it comes to a close
Brutally taking its time
People who change for no reason at all
It's happening all of the time
Can I go on with this train of defense
Disturbing and purging my mind
I count up my duties - when all's said and done
I know that I'll lose every time
Moving along in our God given ways
Safety is sat by the fire
Sanctuary from these feverish smiles

Left with a mark on the door
Is this the gift that I wanted to give Forgive and forget's what they teach
I'll pass through the deserts and waste - lands once more
And watch as they drop by the beach
This is a crises I knew had to come Destroying the balance I'd kept Turning around to the next set of lies
Wondering what will come next
