We saw the sun dip low
Uplifted and refreshed our souls
Looking up at the southern sky
We said "goodbye, now go"

We sat there beside the cliff
We silently wondered if The winds would journey from the sea, and blow our troubles free
Yea wishing that the skies beside would never leave the sea
The moon shined down and said, you see, "Come run away with me"
Whoaa

Yea the smoke rings grew and Encircled your face until they drew
A smile so bright, the stars of night were all we ever knew

We held our breath as the silence swept These lands that we have come to love and call our home
It's not always easy, got beat down, stepped on and left quite queasy
But from now on you know we'll never be alone!

Pre-chorus:
Never alone,
As we journey down this winding road
To the same old tone, stumbled on upon a stepping stone

And now you're leaving
It's apparent in the way you're breathing
Run, run, run, run

Chorus:
Lay by the moonlight
And stay as if it might Say "you were so right today!"

Keep on keeping on this way

We sat there beside a tree Reminisced of stories we Had collected so long ago, and buried by the sea

We went to the mountain top Listened to the waters drop Watched the pebbles fall, the soft winds call
And bring them to a stop

The shadows fade
We watched the light come embrace the shade
And kiss the signs of day as it has done since it was made

In our pockets we found
Two small seeds to bury in the ground
One day theyâ€™ll grow tall and strong, together they are bound

Pre-chorus

Chorus
