You hide the secret, the fairest to see:
How cathedrals are meant to be
Monuments of terrible beauty flow,
The eternity sunrise will know.
Shining depths built on tears I throw,
The eternity sunrise will know.

And as your touch made me blind
I see stars dancing on this steed of mine,
I see universe from a door in your mind.
I'll join the touch of divine.

Here the storms won't get their toll,
We're childish whispers meant to roll,
I know what I do will live over me
Moving in the waves of this silent sea
I know your wild chain will set me free
Moving in the waves of this silent sea.

And as your touch made me blind
I see stars dancing on this steed of mine,
I see universe from a door in your mind.
I'll join the touch of divine.
