And the girls go out

And it's a date

And the boys stay in

Now it's too late

Still I fall in love

Six times a night

In vain on sight

And this bottle

Laughs back in my face

See how easily I lose my place

And the way I look tonight's a crime

Where does the time go?

Where has the time gone?

CHORUS

But if I held you in my arms again

This time I'd never let you go

And I would feel the universe for you

And I would let you know

We don't leave ourselves in many things

Just in letters leases writs and rings

And when the last one's sold or lost or gone

We don't belong here

CHORUS

And the stupid bells

That hang around London town

They cannot pick me up

They cannot dust me down

Things would always have turned out about this way

Where there's an up there'll always be a down you say

Where there's an up there'll always be a down
