

Fat Lady Sings "Providence"

Visit "Providence" on MotoLyrics.com

Where were you when my dreams came true

And my ship finally came in

I was flying head in the clouds

And you were back in Providence

I crawled out of my ark of doubt

Stepped up to claim my prize

A fingerprint in the mantelpiece paint

A letter of just three lines

I played hard I played hard to get

And hard to understand

And every night was a fight to the death

And every day was planned

Where were you when I finally knew

The truth that you'd always known

No matter how far you travel away

You always end up home

Where was this place where I finally fell to grace

And found you'd faded out

Now all the rain that's fallen on me

The sun that's worn me down

But I'm still walking in this same old pair of shoes

I'm walking on the same ground

Oh yes I know nobody chooses anybody

And no one means to lie

But when the weather changes you turn into strangers

Learning how to say goodbye

I'm writing from this town where I let you down once too often

But I'm thinking of that other lucky place

-----

-----

Eric Wincentzen

267@ef.gc.maricopa.edu

Glendale Community College

Glendale, Arizona

"Let's get the baby high

Visit Fat Lady Sings page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.