Her father as a concrete man
And her mother was a painter
Born with good hands
She was born a creator

But the coiled heat
Of this neon light
Won't help anyone find anything tonight
Doesn't feel like rain but you know it might
You won't find anything tonight

She said I'll leave in the morning time
Straightest road from my twisted mind
For the love that I placed on the line
I'll never understand this heart of mine

2 years in New York city
Still lost on the train
So this is what it looks like
To see a man go insane

She rents a new room
Puts her mattress on the floor
The phone doesn't ring like it used to anymore
And all your life you've been waiting by the door
But you're not breathing anymore

She said I'll leave in the morning time
Straightest road from my twisted mind
For the love that I placed on the line
I'll never understand this heart of mine

But I repair the x-rays in your eyes
The radiation in your mind
And I tell you now
Don't leave me here
These walls are gone
But I'm still here
Alone

So I'll leave in the morning time

Straightest road from my twisted mind
For the love that I placed on the line
Iâ€™™ Il never understand this heart of mine

Iâ€™™ Il never understand this heart of mine
