

Peter Ansley

"A Lover's Song"

Visit "A Lover's Song" on MotoLyrics.com

We haven't come so far from the lonely way we were.
All I might have known swirls to color,
then it blurs, then it's gone.

I have had these feelings before
crumbling like castles made of sand.
Only this light that you can bring,
can bring my soul to sing,
sing a lover's song again.

Yes I have known other loves
before you came along.
You changed my mind just when my heart
had closed it's doors and turned to stone.

I have had these feelings before
crumbling like castles made of sand.
Only the music you can bring,
can bring my soul to sing,
sing a lover's song again.

You have the words, the ones I trust,
that fit my melody.
Write them on my heart and make a song
that lovers sing of you and me.

I have had these feelings before
crumbling like castles in the sand.
Only the words that you can bring,
can bring my soul to sing,
sing a lover's song again.

Visit Peter Ansley page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.