

Askil Holm

"Where Have All The Letters Gone"

Visit "Where Have All The Letters Gone" on MotoLyrics.com

I used to count the days for your next letter drop and tears I paid what you might have to say and when the mail man came before 2 'o clock
I sneak out as soon as he ran away
I was carefull not to tear the centered envelop with the hidden notes that where wrapped to me to find

Where have all the letters gone
That we wrote and never threw away
Where have all the letters gone
That you never seen the light of day
It's what we wrote and didn't mean to say
What we wrote and should have thrown away

Today I sent an email to my girlfriend and I replied to the three she sent to me
Now I regret my haste and my frustration
I should have slept on what a word was meant to be
I wish instead that I had stuffed a centered envelop
Where the words of love and doubt were on your mind
Where have all the letters gone
That we wrote and never threw away
Where have all the letters gone
That you never seen the light of day
It's what we wrote and didn't mean to say
What we wrote and should have thrown away

Let's get back to write in complete sentences
And think twice before we reck what we can say

Where have all the letters gone
That we wrote and never threw away
Where have all the letters gone
That you never seen the light of day
It's what we wrote and didn't mean to say
What we wrote and should have thrown away

Visit Askil Holm page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.