She was 15 seconds from the angel's face
Bet too many dollars on a bad horse race
She had bright red lips under teenage eyes
And all she wanted was the butterflies

The cold in her heart

Her friends all scattered, like windswept leaves
There was no one there to fulfill her needs
But in the fountain of youth she dove too deep
She dove to the bottom where the angels sleep

The cold in her heart

Cause the sun could not warm
The cold in her heart
Or drive away the storm
That drove them apart

And here comes the rain
All she wants is to weep
Cause he has found his peace
Where the angels sleep

Got lost without her boyfriend's love
Held by an iron hand in a velvet glove
She stayed with him throughout the night
He never woke up from his final fight

The cold in her heart

Cause the sun could not warm
The cold in her heart
Or drive away the storm
That drove them apart

And here comes the rain
All she wants is to weep
Cause he has found his peace
Where the angels sleep

She is dreaming of a life without the fights and all the pain

It doesn't have to be this way, It doesn't have to be this way
I see her heart in a change
She wants to break away, she wants to break away

She was 15 seconds from the angels face
Too many dollars on a bad horse race

The cold in her heart

Cause the sun could not warm
The cold in her heart
Or drive away the storm
That drove them apart

And here comes the rain
All she wants is to weep
Cause he has found his peace
Where the angels sleep
