What once did exist
Now is meaningless

And doesn't it seem funny
How soon you did forget
All the words that now lost their way
But I remember, I remember

Desperation, devastation
All I truly know
Is isolation, self-damnation
All life that I know
Was shed and worthless now

What I knew was wrong
One who lived is gone

Guess, it was just an echo
When you would sing my song
All the notes you've forgotten now
You've left abandoned, I remember

Desperation, devastation
All I truly know
Is isolation, self-damnation
All life that I know
Was shed and worthless now

I can hate myself
More, more than anyone

Will you join me?
Well, now you know that this
Tortures me
Have I created the suffering
So blank?

I feel it happen again
Smothering
To sell the words that decide
That binds me

Now all I feel is

Desperation, devastation
All I truly know
Is isolation, self-damnation
All life that I know
Was shed and worthless now

Desperation, devastation
All I truly know
Is isolation, self-damnation
All life that I know
Was shed and worthless, worthless now
