"Salt For Your Wounds"

There's a tear in my heart where the blood ran out
There's a tear in my heart where the love ran out
I thought we worked, pushed toward the same ends
I'll never be so quick to trust, trust again

Disenchanted, disgusted
I regret that I trusted
I put my faith, my faith in you
You poisoned me through and through

I thought we both shared the same injuries
Now I've found it's you who injures me
My heart is cracked from being left out in the cold
I know you'll pay for what you've taken, tenfold

Disenchanted, disgusted
I regret that I trusted
I put my faith, my faith in them
They twisted the knife further in

Disenchanted, disgusted
I regret that I trusted
I put my faith, my faith in them
They twisted the knife further in
